To Whom It May Concern:

Chris and Candy Smith are two professional and personable women that offer quality entertainment for all types of events. That is why we chose C&C Productions to entertain our top clients for two consecutive years now. The Smith's commitment to success is evident in each performer in their company and the talents displayed are unsurpassed. Add to that the special attention Chris and Candy give their clients and you have a recipe for memorable events every time!

I would recommend C&C Productions to any organization whose objective is to WOW their guests over and over again.

BROWN-FORMAN

January 4, 2012

To Whom It May Concern,

C&C Productions has been a very valuable and important partner of Brown-Forman Beverage Company for the past 10 years. Candy Smith and her staff of professionals provided frequent and thorough communication with all Brown-Forman stakeholders in creating one of the most successful, creative and consumer-engaging spirit industry events within the past 20 years. The Tuaca Body Art Ball, created and produced by C&C moved from a Dallas-centric event in the early 2000's to a national touring event for B-F within 3 years of inception. During its life, the BAB was well received by all members of B-F, plus created the much needed media hype and consumer awareness growth. The event also helped spur +250% growth over this 10-year period.

Candy and staff have been true partners in every sense of the word. I can't recall a time when we couldn't resolve something cordially. Whether it was a state legal issue, contract negotiation, creative snafu or a simple dance routine, Candy was there to address the problem and get to the appropriate resolve so that all parties went away feeling comfortable moving forward.

C&C Productions fulfilled every part of their contract with us and I am grateful for her helping us make Tuaca the brand it is today.

Sincerely,
Wayne Putlak

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

It is with much confidence that I recommend Chris Ann Seay and Candy Smith of C&C Productions to be licensed as a Minority Owned Business. My agency has worked with them on many projects over the years. Their professionalism, enthusiasm and sheer joy for the work they do makes our job even better. Their skill and kindness are unmatched in a very competitive and fast paced industry and they are held in high regard by everyone. I can say without reservation that they are not only the most popular casting directors and clients we know, but the most respected. We consider it a privilege to work with them.

To Whom It May Concern

This is to inform you of the magnitude of success our company had by hiring C and C Productions as event coordinators of an event we had in 2003. Our theme was "Come What May" with a Moulin Rouge theme and did they ever "Come What May". Their choreographed numbers were just out of this world! We got rave reviews on their production for weeks after our event. So, it was a no-brainer to immediately book them for the following 2004 event which was a Viva Las Dallas theme that evolved around a Vegas ambiance. C and C truly brought Vegas to Dallas from the Showgirls to Elvis to sets, lighting, music and the authentic boxing announcer/emcee. From the moment you stepped in to our venue, you truly thought you were in Vegas!

Chris, Candy and their entire staff had a "take charge" attitude that provided comfort to our staff in their planning from a-z. We gave them our theme. They took over. What a relief! You will know from the beginning that you have nothing to worry about with them in charge.

I highly commend their work and recommend them as professionals in their field. If you need pictures of our event, we are happy to share!

To Whom It May Concern,

Rock House Films is a production company that produces national commercials for clients such as Harrah's, Southwest Airlines, Wal-Mart, Hasbro and Lowe's.

We have had the pleasure to work with Chris and Candy Productions for the past two years. They have handled all our casting needs for all of our commercials. Chris and Candy have brought a new level of professionalism to our needs. They are without a doubt the most organized and the best-run company we have ever worked with, and that includes companies from Los Angeles and New York. I believe this comes from their attitude, energy and talent. They run everything at 110%.

We attended the Body Art Ball for the first time this year and were completely astounded by not only the idea, but also the production itself. Chris and Candy added their own creativity to the Body Art Ball and the results were simply amazing. As a Director and Executive Producer myself, I was so impressed how smooth the evening went and how visually stunning it was.

I hope this letter reflects how special these two are. I never have to check up on their performance when they work for Rock House, I trust them completely. The only hard part of working with them is trying to keep up with their energy.

Sincerely,

To Whom It May Concern:

Candy Smith was a reliable, compassionate community volunteer with The SPCA of Texas.

Chris and Candy Productions produced our Super Bowl XLV event in February of 2011. The event was a sold out concert by legendary performer Willie Nelson! The event was a complete success raising nearly $50,000 for our organization.

The SPCA of Texas serves as an active resource center providing an array of programs and services that bring people and animals together to enrich each other's lives. Through the work of Chris and Candy Productions, Ms. Smith was an enormous help to our fundraising efforts this year.

STONE CORE FILMS, INC.

January 3, 2012,

To Whom It May Concern:

“Chris and Candy Productions” has been providing full service casting, entertainment and production services to our company, Stone Core Films, Inc. since 1999. In that time they have been consistently professional and tremendous allies in our business endeavors. We look forward to a continued business relationship with their company and all of its future offerings, our successes in Texas would have been far less without their support and hard work.

Sincerely,

To Whom It May Concern:

Two years ago I attended the Body Art Ball for the first time. I was unfamiliar with the show, but left the venue astounded at the creativity, professionalism and sheer spectacle of it all.

In the weeks that followed, I was given an assignment by my client, Philip Morris International, to come up with an unexpected bar/club event that would have appeal worldwide. With the impact of The Body Art Ball still on my mind, I called Candy Smith with C&C Productions to ask for details about working with my client.

She was happy to provide me with video, photography, and other materials that enabled me to present it in a professional way. Almost immediately, she began compiling costs, travel arrangements, talent needs and client requests so that I could have a clear picture of everything.

My client loved the idea and asked me to present it to a group of PMI executives from 8 different countries. C&C productions agreed to join us at the meeting in New York City for an exclusive, "live" performance with at least 20 cast and crew members.

Planning and coordinating an event out-of-state can be difficult, but C&C made it easy. Timing, costs, travel, and most of all, a willingness to work with our client's specific needs made them delightful to work with. Specifically, they were able to creatively modify their existing performance, even going so far as to create new characters within a short timeline.

The Body Art Ball is such a unique and exciting performance, and will bring unforgettable exposure and support for our client's brand and it's sponsors. I would recommend C&C Productions to anyone looking to develop an exciting showcase for their brand or property. If you have any questions, feel free to call me.
